in 1979 five american poets helped to change our senses of american poetry introducing the work of robert hass john matthias james mcmichael john peck and robert pinsky to british readers and writers now in a much changed landscape this volume revisits that constellation of writers america did not declare independence in its poetry as quickly or as dramatically as in politics it took time for the new nation to free itself from the many and widely contrasting traditions customs codes and cultures it had inherited and expressed itself through scores of imitators before it found its own characteristic way of thinking reacting and writing here is the poetry of early america revealing the spirit the scenes and the turbulence of the period and setting forth the works of over forty accomplished poets many of whom are forgotten to all but the literary historian this collection in devoted to the expanding spirit as well as the formative genius of america challenging the common perception of poets as standing apart from the mainstream of american culture robert von hallberg gives us a fresh and unpredictable assessment of the poetry that has come directly out of the american experience since 1945 who reads contemporary american poetry more people than were reading new poetry in the 1920s von hallberg shows how do poets respond to the public preoccupations of their readers often with fascination von hallberg put the poems of robert creeley and john ashbery together with the postwar outburst of systems analysis the 1950s tourist poems of john hollander adrienne rich w s merwin and james merrill are treated as the cultural side of america s postwar rise to global political power there are chapters on the political poems of the 1950s and 1960s and on robert lowell s sympathy for the imperialism of his liberal contemporaries poems of the 1970s on pop culture especially edward dorn s slinger and some from the suburbs of the 1980s are shown to reflect a curious peace between the literary and the mass cultures the beats black mountain and new modes of american poetry explores correspondences amongst the black mountain and beat generation writers two of most well known and influential groups of poets in the 1950s the division of writers as beat or black mountain has hindered our understanding of the ways that these poets developed from mutual influences benefitted from direct relations and overlapped their boundaries this collection of academic essays refines and adds context to beat studies and black mountain studies by investigating the groups intersections and undercurrents one goal of the book is to deconstruct the beat and black mountain labels in order to reveal the shifting and fluid relationships among the individual poets who developed a revolutionary poetics in the 1950s and beyond taken together these essays clarify the radical experimentation with poetics undertaken by these poets
